Grammar Glossary

Active voice	A sentence written in the active voice has the subject carrying out the action before the verb. The object (the receiver of the action) comes after the action. Example: The magician pulled a rabbit from the hat. It's the opposite of the passive voice , where the object of a sentence comes before the verb. The rabbit was pulled from the hat by the magician.
Antonym	A word with the opposite meaning to another, e.g. good/bad, wise/foolish, long/short.
Clause	Clauses are the building blocks of a sentence. They are groups of words that contain a subject and a verb. They can be 'main' or 'subordinate'. Main clause - is the leading clause in a sentence which indicates the main subject and action of the sentence. It makes sense on its own. Subordinate clause - a clause that cannot stand alone as a complete sentence, but is linked to a main clause using a subordinating conjunction. It does not make sense on its own.
Cohesive devices	Cohesive devices are words or phrases used to connect ideas between different parts of text. Using conjunctions, pronouns and consistent tense will ensure cohesion.
Dialogue	A conversation between two or more people.
First person	A sentence is written in the first person if it is written from the point of view of the subject - in other words, using the pronouns 'I' or 'we'.
Fronted adverbial	Words or phrases used at the beginning of a sentence to explain where, when or how something happens.
Metaphor	A description that compares things by saying one of them is the other. For example: the bear was a roaring tempest rampaging through the forest.
Noun phrase	A small group of words that does not contain a verb. A noun phrase contains a noun plus words to describe it - for example, 'the spotty, black dog'.
Object	The object of a sentence is involved in the action but does not carry it out. For example, 'I dropped my cup on the floor'.
Passive voice	A sentence written in the passive voice has the object of a sentence before the verb. Example: The rabbit was pulled from the hat by the magician. It's the opposite of the active voice , which has the subject carrying out the action before the verb. The magician pulled a rabbit from the hat.
Personification	Giving human qualities to animals or objects.
